Published every morning (Sundays excepted BY GEORGE T. HAMMOND, At 123 Thumes Street:

FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1859.

Old Austria vs. Young France. The London Times, in a recent leader thus answers the question: Why did the Austrians lose the buttle of Solferino? Why have they lost every battle that has been fought in this war? "It is not that they are less brave than he French. In this very engagement, ancording to the official accounts of each army, the Austrians killed and wounded 12,000 Frenchmen, with a loss to themselves of but 9000 killed and wounded. There could have been no flight when the numbers stand thus at the end of the day. Nor are the Austrians inferior as marksmen. Their riflemen hit 720 French officers, whereof 120 were shot dead, while the French succesded in killing and wounding only 230 of the Austrian officers. They certainly are not inferior to the French in discipline. Their vis inertice is magnificent, and they retreat invariably with a bold, steady front to the foe. Why is it, then, that they who can lose so valiantly can never win? Because, unfortunately for them, present knowledge is present power, and their knowledge is not of the present but of the past. They are a stagnating respectability. They are governed and directed by cld rules, old men and old routine. They have an enemy who does not care a centime for antiquity, and is not above taking the most irregular methods to win a victory. The Emperor of Austria makes up his mind to do a remarkable fine piece of Lauis Quatorze strategy. He excontes un elaborate piece of old-fashioned deception, crosses the Mincio with his whole force, and then recrossing it with his two hundred thousand men, and fixing the contemplated surprise of the enemy at nine o'clock in the morning. The Emperor of the French, representing the invenile irregular school, in the most ungentlemenlike manner refuses to be surprised. Having recourse to a new-langled expedient which no trustworthy veteran who can count his seventy years would condescend to use, he sends a man up in a balloon, and at the expense of a few yards of silk and a few square feet of gas, is told the exact position of all those masses which are drawn up so scientifically out of his sight with the intention of surprising him at the comfortable, leisurely hour of 9 A, M. The man of his timethe clever, active, shrewd, nothing-conterming adventurer of the nineteenth ocntury-by dint of this small contrivance becomes master of the positon. He knows what is going to happen and where his enemy is, and how many he is; and while the heavy, self-complacent Austrian is chuckling at the formal surprise that is to come off at 9 A. M., he attacks at daybreak, chooses his own time and point of attack, and remains master of the field. So, again, the Austrians, coming by very respectable means, in no respect sulfied by any inventiveness or breach of precedent, into possession of a fine body of shurpshooters, dealt tremendous disaster prainst the French. The French opposed artificial to the Austrian natural adventage, but not so as to equalize the two armies in the rifle. There was another point, however, in which the two nations were equal. The Austrian mountaineers do not use can non in their Sunday games. Here France went ahead, and Austria marched au pas. The consequences have been obvious enough. The battle of Solferino has been won by the superiority of the French artillery. The shells from the French rifled cannon iell at distance whence the old guns could not reply. Every reader can work out the result. The enemy's artillery was silenced before it could come within effective distance. Man's thews and fiesh are to-day as they were a thousand years ago, but machinery is not thus immutable. Mere 'pluck' and courage, and standing still in squares, and coming forward in lines, is of no use it there is an engine two miles off which will mow down your lines and reap a death-harvest in your squres before you can reach your living enemy. All that is left in such a case to a gentleman at the old school is to die with dignity and constancy, scorning, it he should so please, with his last breath, the foe that seeks victory by such plebeian and irregular meune"

> How Peorle Give .-- Some men will give a dellar and put to much heart into it that it will be worth more than a thousand dollars from another. Some men will give but it is as when miners blast out gold bearitg quartz---you have to drill and drill till you can effect a lodgment, and then put in good motives like powder, and then off at lost goes the explosion, and you are almost covered by the rocks which they fire at you. This giving is not wha Bible requires. It is not enough for our Father in Heaven that we are generous in giving. We must wrenth our charities in giving. We must wrenth our char about with beauty....[H. W. Beccher.

Newport to New York by the Fall Hever Line.

As this is the season for travel, when the thoroughferes to New York from the various points East are thronged, it is perhaps a most fitting time for us to indice an article on the merits of the line named in the above caption, which for a period of nearly thirteen years has kept up an uninterrupted communication between this city and New York, through the storms and gales of winter, as well as the more Pleasant weather of summer.

We cannot, perhaps, better carry out our purpose, than by inviting the render to ac-company us (on paper) on a trip to New York, selecting for our conveyance that prince of steamers, the Metropolis.

Crossing the gang plank to the deck of the steamer, we wend our way through piles of freight on either side a long distance aft, to the office, where, having made the necessary arrangements with the polite and accommoduling cierk Stophen Davol, Esq., we ascend to the saloon deck, take possession of our stateroom, and are at once at home in the spacious well lighted more than elegant saloon extending the entire length of the steamer. Joining the hundreds already scated engaged in conversation or in resuling some book or paper, we will pass an hour in the enjoyment of the scene before retiring, or in studying the ponderous engine comprising the metive power of the be through the plate glass separating, it from the sulcon deck. Here you will find an Indicator, an ingenious contrivance telling you at any moment how many revulutions the wheels have made since leaving the wharf at Pall River, and will be surprised and lost in admiration at the enormous strength which has been achieved in connection with the beariful piece of mechanism before you.

But what is this that sways the boat from But what is that servey such the City Hall, that encurary may be side to side, and causes you to walk in a man-tide to side, and causes you to walk in a man-ed to them inviting their attendance at the ner not sanctioned on shore by the rules and re-union, on the 23d of August. regulations of temperance societies? It is the remains of an old southeaster coming in in s heavy ground swell from the ecoan. If you are sickness proof you had better stay up, go out upon the forward deck, and enjoy the sublime prospect upon the occan.

Who, you ask me, is that gentleman in the salaan, who seems almost ubiquitous, now here, saying a pleasant word to another, and seeming to have a watchful eye to the comfort of all? That, my dear sir, is the all? That, my dear sir, is the commander of the boat, Capt. William Brown, as excellent a seaman as he is a man, having ascended the ladder step by step, from the station of cabia bey on bused a coasting ressel, to that of com-mander of one of the fluckt steamers on the American waters, where he has rendered himelf highly and deservedly popular with the travelling public.

EXCURSION TO PORTSMOUTH GROVE.-St. Mary's (Catholic) Sabbath School went to Pertamonth Grove yesterday, instead of Rocky Point. They went up on the steamer Golden Gate at 11 1-2 o'clock, A. M., returning on the same boat at 7 P. M. The excursion was got up and carried forward under the anstices of W. K. Delaney, Esq., teacher of the Cathelie school in this city, and numbered, as we tearn from him, about eight hundred. Accompanying them on the return trip, we can say from observation, that a more orderly exeuration party never returned to this city. The time coming down was passed by the adults of the party in pleasant social converse and in singing.

The gay season has fairly commenced in our siter city. The Nemport papers stated in the Spring that an unusually large number of cottages were cugaged. These are now occupied, and in addition, the hotols are rapidly filling up. Among these we are pleased to notice that the F.llmare House maintains its popularity against all competium. This is not to be wondered at, when it is remembered that the proprietor, Mr. Hard, is one of the most gentlemanly and obliging of landbords, that his assistants are competent and fulfulf, that his table is surpassed by none, and that his establishment is, in all offirs departments, well appointed, perfectly conducted, and in every way arranged for the comfort and convenience of guests.

Such a house in the hands of such a landlord cannot fail of popularity. A noticeable feature in regard to it is the fact that every Sun-Such a house in the latins of documents and of a cannot fail of inspilarity. A noticeable feature in regard to it is the fact that every Summer the great majority of the guests are the same, poly patrons of the house, who, visiting it once, are sure to return again and again, a fact amply sufficient to show the estimation in which it is held.

RESCEE.-We learn from Capt. King, of pitot boat No. 2, or thus city, that in pitoting a vessel up the river yesterday morning, about 5 o'llock, off Portsmouth Grove, a boat was discovered floating bottom up, with a man sitting thereon. He was about lowering a boat to go to his assistance, when another boat put off from the shore and took him off. The beat was capsized in the squall about 4 1-2 o'clock Wednesday afternoen, and he had been over 12 hours in his perilous position, being very nigh exhausted. No partienlars were learned concerning him.

SEA BATHING-ITS USE AND ABUSE,-Now that people are commencing to move towards the sea-shore, the following advice will prove useful to many :---

"Sea bathing requires caution to make it useful and health-imparting. Sir Arthur Clarke says: The manner of bathing, though a point of the first importance, seems, by most people, to be thought of no consequence at all that let the effects of bathing be considered, and this indifference will appear in a strong light. By the compression of the whole external surface of the body which takes place on judicious immersion, the blood is carried on with increased force to the heart, and returned by the reaction with proportional impulse. By this increased action and velocity, the capillaries are opened, the sluggish and temetons humors loosened, and the whole system invigorated ; but all this depends prevented : the vessels collapse, and transpiration by the natural channel of the pores is su pended; obstructions are confirmed, The sun is up, and here we are at the head of the Saund; If we go out on deck, as the beat nears the city we shall be treated to a paneramic view of unrivalled beauty and interest, which if you have never seen, is worth to is when the natural inclination is the strong-est; and this, generally speaking, will be after considerable exercise, but short of only once a day. With regard to the exercise of swimming, it should be of moder ate duration; when long continued it has, in numerous instances, coasioned the loss of limbs and not unfrequently proved fatal." Sir Arthur Clarke scems сопьсіоця од bathing. Children should never be dipped more than once, and that with the greatest care; let the immersion be deep, and quickly done. The proper depth for general bathing is about 4 1-2 feet.

CARPET LINING.

This article is a new invention, and has been parented. It not only entirely protects: Carpets from moths and other insects, but it makes the Carpet soft to the tread, acts as a muller of sound, is a non-conductor of heat, theroughly and effectually prevents dempiness striking through, and what is of the greatest desideratum of all, it makes your Carpet last twice as long as if straw or naper were used. This lining is very low in price, and will at least save FIFTY PER CENT. on the cost of the Carpet. The
